The Clash Of Civilizations And The Remaking Of World Order

Synopsis

Samuel Huntington explains how clashes between civilizations are the greatest threat to world peace but also how an international order based on civilizations is the best safeguard against war. Events since the publication of the book have proved the wisdom of that analysis. The 9/11 attacks and wars in Iraq and Afghanistan have demonstrated the threat of civilizations but have also shown how vital international cross-civilization cooperation is to restoring peace. As ideological distinctions among nations have been replaced by cultural differences, world politics has been reconfigured. Across the globe, new conflictsâ and new cooperationâ have replaced the old order of the Cold War era. --This text refers to an out of print or unavailable edition of this title.

Cogent, incisive analysis of the post Cold War power structure among world civilizations. Huntington helps me understand current events, even when the book was written 20 years earlier. It may be useful to extrapolate to future events as well. Highly entertaining, and cerebral read.

Samuel Huntington was a pure genius who was also a very productive academic and writer. If you have any interest in global affairs you should read this book and then follow up with "World Order" by Henry Kissinger.

The Clash of Civilizations is somewhat dated but still predictive of the future of the world we live in. It is a must read for anyone wanting to go deeper into what is happening in our society and the world at large than simple sound bites from our political and media machines.

One of the amazing books of the century. It must be read. And it should be a core requirement in schools.

This book is very helpful in understanding the current state of global affairs. I highly recommend this book to all.

Great book on foreign affairs, well written and very applicable to the current challenges the USA faces around the globe. Samuel Huntington wrote this book in the mid 1990's and from that point was able to predict accurately 90 % of the conflicts, who was involved and why, that we read in the paper and watch on the news today. I suggest this book for anyone who wants to have a better understanding of the challenges in the early 21st century and how we can adjust or/and accept the outcomes of the world issues. 3/1/15 This is an addition of thought to this book recommendation, I want to be more positive on the value of this book, for the future may depend on more people being aware of Samuel Huntington's thought. It does point out who are our enemies, in the sense that their culture is threatened by the Western (US is major part of the Western culture) idealism of every culture or civilizations should be like us, and add that if we protect our cultural identity and accept that other cultures can exist with their identity, the world could be a more peaceful world, by the elimination of war from the misunderstanding of other civilizations .

Prof. Huntington's thesis is perhaps the best explanation for what has been happening in the geopolitical world since the beginning of this Century. An every-increasing clash between the "Civilization" of Western Europe and America, on the one hand, and the "civilization" of the Islamic Middle Eastern World. Actually, this is merely the "reawakening" of a "clash of these two "Civilizations" that has been recurring in intensity ever since Mohammed appeared in the 7th Century. The frightening aspect is that the present "technologies" of war have developed to the point where an apocalyptic war that may result in the devastation of both of the warring societies and of much of mankind-- analogous to some Biblical Wars (cf., Deuteronomy) or to some of the Lord's demonstrations of disgust with mankind (Egyptian plagues, Sodom and Gomorrah)-- is possible if not likely some day. Also see his final article/book on the subject ---Who Are We? Challenges to America's National Identity (2004).

A must read for any serious student, practitioner, or teacher of cultural diversity.
