Absolutely fascinating story, and many details on Javanese culture, including sage Agastya. The bond between mother and son is very strong, and after death it still continues! Thought provoking comparison between East and West. This book has humour, sadness, uplifting and covers many subjects from astral projection to alternative health. A very good read.

I really enjoyed this book. It was so interesting to read what it was like to move at such a young age from England to a small village in the middle of Java. The stories along the way had me hooked and i found that i couldnt stop reading it. The bond between mother and son is beautiful and i highly recommend this book.
